The present study dealt with the issue of data collection in the malpractice insurance database, concerning one third of the physicians in the Alsace region. The database was implemented by the SFGM (Alsace Society for Medical Defense) in 1999. In the present survey, 1,443 physicians were recorded in the database over a period of two years. The analysis yielded the following results: a) 2.4% of the surveyed physicians are legal defendants, and 20.2% are legal observers; b) only three plaintiffs and 11 defendants were charged for the same type of damage; c) the defendant was always a specialist; d) the second most frequent type of damage was the surgical disease (37%), followed by the neurologic disease (28%); e) a bias was observed in favor of medical specialists (specialists, 88.4% vs. general practitioners, 11.6%); f) there was a strong correlation between the number of economic damages borne by the defendant and the number of damage records; g) the damages borne by legal observers were significantly different from those of legal defendants. The database quality improved notably over the time studied. It will be of particular interest to describe it in greater detail and to study its linkages with other medico-legal databases."I want to use on a sci-fi movie we're shooting called 'USS Callister.' I've got two wigs that we've dyed brown for the time period. I want to go blonde, but it's gonna be awful for my neck. How do I do it?" Good times. And if you're really on a budget, Then it's easy: clip all your hair off close to your nape and cover the rest with a ponytail clip. Don't be tempted to cut your hair too short, though, as that style will only make thinning hair worse. There's a wide variety of styles you can wear to protect your hair from the sun. growth factor-I receptor mRNA in cultured rat thymocytes. The insulin-like growth factor-I (IGF-I) receptor is a membrane protein which has been shown to be functionally associated with the stimulation of thymocytes by IGF-I. In order to further examine the role of IGF-I receptor in controlling thymocyte proliferation and differentiation, a cDNA for the rat receptor was cloned by polymerase chain reaction amplification and its expression was analyzed.

Sequence analysis of the cloned sequence showed high homology with that of mouse and human IGF-I receptors. Antibodies directed against synthetic peptides identical to the sequence deduced from the cDNA hybridized with the receptor on Western blots and recognized the receptor in various rat tissues. Northern blot analysis showed a single mRNA of 5.5 kb which was expressed in spleen and thymus. Expression of mRNA was further examined in primary cultured rat thymocytes. The levels of IGF-I receptor mRNA increased gradually after the addition of serum or PDGF. Furthermore, the increase of IGF-I receptor mRNA in thymocytes was completely abolished by treatment of cultured thymocytes with cycloheximide. In the preparation used in the study, there was no detectable binding of [125I]IGF-I to the cultured thymocytes, suggesting that the thymocyte IGF-I receptor is not available for binding of IGF-I.Q: Why was my question deleted? Why was my post about the Chinese phrase 開卷有益 (to cultivate in the past knowledge) deleted? It was flagged as spam, but I'm not spamming. I had never heard of this phrase before I asked the question, and the phrase means nothing to me now. I'm surprised that Google turns up no relevant info for "開卷有益❖"
